Association Management Strategies (AMS) Announces the Addition of Becca Dietrich as Account Executive

Washington, DC – Washington, DC based association management firm, Association Management Strategies, a Navista Company, today announced the addition of Becca Dietrich as Account Executive.

We are pleased to have Becca Dietrich a seasoned and experienced association management professional join AMS,” said John Flatley, AMS Principal. “Dietrich has over 10 years of association management experience and is a proven professional that will strengthen the talented list of professionals at AMS. We are very pleased to have Becca working with us,” Flatley continued.

Dietrich most recently served as Client Manager for Association Global Services. She has served in various capacities for a number of association clients including DRI, International, Environmental Markets Association, National Health Care Anti-Fraud Association and the National Corrugated Steel Pipe Association.

Dietrich holds a Master of Public Administration with a concentration in Non-profit Management from George Mason University and is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Allegheny College in Meadville, PA.

AMS is a full service association management company providing management to 10 national and international trade associations and professional societies.
