The American Academy of Craniofacial Pain Selects Drohan Management Group for Association Management Services

August 12, 2011 (Reston, VA) – The American Academy of Craniofacial Pain (AACP) has selected Drohan Management Group (DMG) as the organization’s new service and support team. DMG began its partnership with AACP on April 1 and will provide full-service management for the group.

The AACP (<http://www.aacfp.org>) is a professional society comprised of some 800 dental professionals in the United States and abroad who are committed to the relief of craniofacial pain and dysfunction and to the advancement of research and study in this field. The Academy offers extensive continuing education, a professional journal and an online patient referral service.

“We’re looking forward to a productive partnership with DMG and to many Academy initiatives we’ll work closely with the DMG team on that will take AACP to new heights. Our Board is already energized by the positive feedback we’re getting from our successful Annual Clinical Symposium in July, and we’re relying on DMG to continue their efforts,” said Dr. Jamison R. Spencer, President of the Academy.

“The AACP is an outstanding organization,” DMG President Bill Drohan, CAE, said. “The work AACP members do has the potential to help people manage a variety of health issues with effective diagnosis and treatment options. We’re happy to be able to support the AACP in achieving its mission.”

DMG is an internationally recognized and accredited Association Management Company based in Reston, VA. Founded in 1986, the company manages 20 national and international organizations on both full-service and project bases. For more information about DMG, visit www.drohanmgmt.com.
